

NEW EDITOR FOR HADLEY WOOD NEWS

With the retirement of Rod Armstrong after 16 years, there is an opportunity for someone to step in as Editor of our community magazine, and for new volunteers to become helpers and contributors.

Please let us know of your interest (for yourself or a nomination) as soon as possible, preferably by mid July.

Contact by email to HWA or Robert Wilson or speak to Rod himself or any HWA Committee member.

The HWN has a long history and has been produced in a variety of ways.

It is currently printed and delivered every two months (next edition August) and posted on our website.

Rod has been collating contributions (including his own interviews and regular articles) and adverts himself on his computer and sends his edition to our regular printers Acculith, who can themselves provide layout and assistance.

We need new photojournalism to replace John Leatherdale.

HWA office supports the administration including advertising revenue.

In the past, there has been an Editorial Board. The new Editor (traditionally a volunteer role) can mould the new ways in which HWN operates, including closer links with our website as a local news link.

We look forward to hearing from you, ready to discuss the requirements and opportunities.
